

CONTENTS

Acknowledgments	ix
1 Introduction and evaluation criteria	1
2 Power struggles over policies: the Mao years	7
3 Mao sacrifices ethics to advance macroeconomic performance	19
4 The cat's color does not matter: the Deng years	30
5 Deng Xiaoping sacrifices ethics to promote efficiency	45
6 "Some will get rich before others": the Jiang Zemin years: 1989–2002	54
7 Jiang Zemin sacrifices ethics to promote efficiency	65
8 Harmony? The Hu Jintao years: 2002–2012	72
9 Export-driven to consumption-driven growth	85
10 Central planning goals overshadow ethics under Hu Jintao	97
11 Xi Jinping's domestic dream for China	103

12	Consumption-driven growth fails to thrive under Xi Jinping	121
13	China's international dream under Xi Jinping: trade and exchange rate issues	132
14	China's international dream under Xi Jinping: geopolitical expansion and military issues	153
15	Xi Jinping sacrifices ethics for macroeconomic performance	165
16	Future paths for China	175
17	Conclusions, recommendations, and Xi's nightmares	184
	Index	192